DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

Misspelled (meth)acrylate at page 9, lines 13, 15, 22 and 23.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1; 2, 4-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Usui et al U.S. Patent 6,800,688.

Usui discloses a modified polyolefin resin by grafting a (meth)acrylic ester (B), wherein a (meth)acrylic ester includes cyclohexyl (meth)acrylate that is readable in the present claims 1 and 4. The modified polyolefin resin can include a hydroxyethyl (meth)acrylate that is readable in the present claim 5, column 5, lines 16-17. the modified polyolefin resin can be used by itself or as a component for providing adhesive , primer, paint and ink, column 7, lines 17-19, for the present claims 6-8. The presence of unsaturated polycarboxylic acid as a grafting monomer is not excluded in the present claims. The claimed modified polyolefin resin is anticipated by the disclosure in Usui invention.

Art Unit: 1711

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ma U.S. Patent 6,472,463 taken as individual reference or in view of Arashiro et al U.S. Patent 5,424,359.

Ma discloses grafted backbone polymer formed from polymerized ethylenically unsaturated monomers with a polymerizable monomer including t-butyl methacrylate, t-butyl cyclohexyl (meth)acrylate, cyclohexyl (meth)acrylate, column 3, lines 30, 35-36, 49-50, for the present claims 1-2 and 4. The graft copolymer further contains a grafted monomer having hydroxyl functional group such as 2-hydroxyethyl methacrylate, column 6, lines 41-43, for the present claim 5. The grafted copolymer can be used as primers, column 7, line 59.

Ma does not name a polyolefin backbone polymer. However, Ma discloses backbone polymer formed from polymerized ethylenically unsaturated monomers.

In light of the motivation that backbone polymer is formed from polymerized ethylenically unsaturated monomers in Ma invention, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to consider that the claimed polyolefin backbone resin is readable in said polymer formed from polymerized ethylenically unsaturated monomer in the absence of evidence to the contrary, and since polymer formed from polymerized ethylenically unsaturated monomer belongs to the polyolefin type resins.

Arashiro discloses a graft modified polyolefin type resin backbone with an alpha, beta-unsaturated carboxylate having a hydroxyl group.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to substitute backbone polymer formed from polymerized ethylenically unsaturated monomers in Ma invention with a polyolefin type resin backbone by teaching in Arashiro invention because a polyolefin resin and a polymer formed from polymerized ethylenically unsaturated monomer belong to the same type of polyolefin resins.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. References have been considered.
